THE 1967 CA HI ANA

*CARTHAGE HIGH SCHOOL
CARTHAGE, INDIANA*

We, the graduating class of 1967, in sincere appreciation for his time, talents and long hours of preparation, direction, and worry in guiding us through the latter years of our teenage life and in preparing us for the challenges of adult life, do dedicate this yearbook to a man we shall never forget but shall appreciate more upon graduation --- to our high school principal

MR. BYRON E. SMITH

Our thanks will never be great enough, our debt never paid to this man who through a Christian life endeavored to show us the straight and narrow way of life and challenged us to take up a clean and pure adult life. Although we did not at the time, we are now just beginning to realize that we are thankful for the years of discipline and encouragement to work harder.

We are again solemnly grateful to you, Mr. Smith for being our guide through the formative years that depend upon proper guidance to develop young people into upright moral adults.

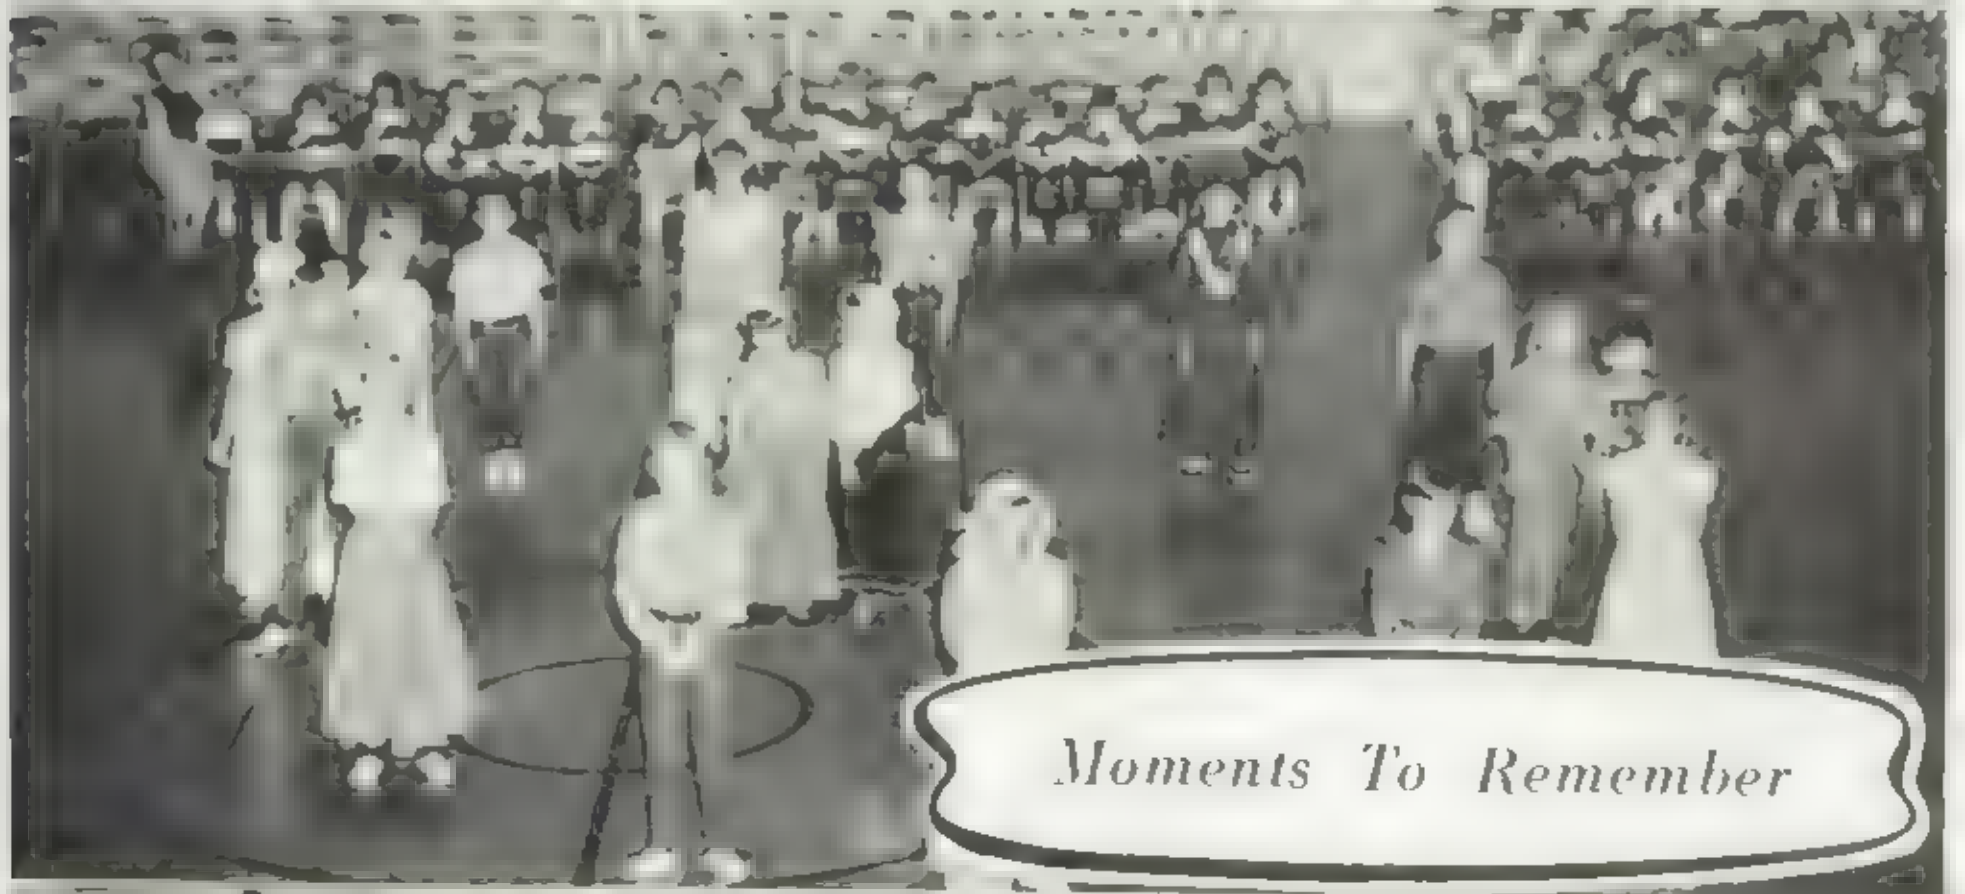

As the Class of 1966 graduated and left the halls of C.H.S., the Juniors began to realize the responsibilities that were now on their shoulders. Before the Seniors' caps and gowns were sent back the Class of 1967 began to daydream and look forward to the day when they would be presented their diplomas. As often happens they were caught in the act of daydreaming, and here is a picture of the Junior class in 1966.

Many Junior Class meetings were spent discussing their coming Yearbook and Senior activities. The yearbook staff was appointed by the class sponsors and students could be seen taking pictures all summer so that the 1967 Ca Hi Ana would be the best ever.

On Friday, September 2, 1966, the Senior Class met to begin their last year of high school. A few new faces were seen due to the consolidation of Mays High School, and due to personal reasons a few familiar faces were missing.

As the Senior Class began to work on their yearbook they realized that all of their daydreaming had become a reality. With this in mind, the 1967 Ca Hi Ana begins -----

Our First Play

JUNIOR PROM is the moving story of an average American family with Dan Hunt as the father and Sherry McKain (would you believe) the mother. Both did a great job of acting odd in leading our nutty family, although most agree it came quite naturally.

An appropriate play for our class, the play was appropriately directed by Mr. Eugene I. Gardener, a man experienced in this type of life and a man to whom we owe a lot---a lot of hard practices.

Other memorable moments came as the cast listened in on various organizations meeting on the third floor. One most memorable was the Carthage Ladies Diet Club. Its content will not long be forgotten by the cast.

Some of the most enjoyable hours were spent practicing and on opening night. Some of the greatest moments of our Junior year came during our Junior play, not soon to be forgotten.

Who rattled your cage?

Avon calling!

Synopsis

When Chuck Haines practices on his printing press, turning out tracts stating Mr. Haines, a psychiatrist, things, odd things start to happen. A nutty pugilist (Richard Back) who starts fighting every time he heard a bell and a belle (Ilene Logan) who just isn't quite right come to the Haines' house, starting a turmoil and an epidemic of measles. The quarantine is finally lifted and the two nuts come back to announce their engagement, only to start another epidemic the night of the prom. All of this drives away the housekeeper (Wanda Henderson). To top everything off, Hilda Haines' (Evelyn Petry) boyfriend (Rick Patton) forgets her flowers (on purpose??). Other visitors were Frankie (Mike Alter), Cousin Cora (Darlene Barry), Queenie (Billie Henley), and Dr. Prescott (Buddy Willey).

It's 2:30 ----- Why?

Don't look at me, I can't remember my own lines!

Gathering of the nuts!

You think they look bad--you should hear them!

All together now--1-2-3!

An important part of any music department is the small individual ensemble groups. One such group in our local department for the past two years has been the Barbershop Quartet, consisting of Mike Whitfield, tenor; Craig Lafuse, lead; Dave Hunt, baritone; and Dan Hunt, bass. In addition to entertaining many local groups and participating in school programs, they, as well, won at local and district contests. Some of the recognition consists of 1st at State and District contests and 2nd at Manilla Lions talent contest. This group was the first true Barbershop Quartet ever at our school and we truly hope the interest for it will carry down through the future years at school. Highlighting their career, the 'close harmony crooners' entertained the Lands, their instructor and her husband, and the Triple Trio to a very enjoyable evening at the Hagerstown Smorgasbord for a great time eating and having a blast seeing who could "out eat" each other.

Spring Music Activities

The annual festivities of our Spring Program had emphasis on our state celebrating its Sesquicentennial year. As usual the performances and musical talents of grades one through twelve were well accepted by a capacity audience. All music used was by Hoosier composers and samples of folk songs from early Indiana statehood. Such numbers as "Back Home Again in Indiana," "In An Old Fashioned Garden," and James Whitcomb Riley's "Little Orphant Annie's come to our house to stay, to wash the cups and saucers up and brush the crumbs away.....and the goblins will get you, if you don't watch out!" were enjoyed by cast and audience.

A new activity which the High School chorus participated in was the Eastern Indiana District Choral Festival held at the New Castle Field House during March. Nearly one thousand students from sixteen high schools were stimulated and inspired by the guest director Don Neuen of Ball State University. The school was further honored to have the Barbershop Quartet be one of the three groups presenting special entertainment at the public performance.

Junior and Senior Prom

At the dreary hour of 9:00 A.M. on the morning of April 30, 1966, the Juniors of Carthage High School started decorating the Greenfield American Legion Hall for the annual Junior and Senior Prom. Much hard work turned the ordinary building into a world of crepe paper, flowers and music.

At the magic hour of 9:00 P.M. the couples started arriving to the music of a band composed of several business men. During the evening the group was surprised to find two celebrities in their midst. Craig Lafuse (lead of the Immortal Four) sang his version of "Lazy River" and Richard Trubey (The C.H.S. Varsity Coach) favored those in attendance with "Now is the Hour."

Guests enjoying the 1966 Prom

I enjoy being a girl!

You call this dancing?

This good-looking group had 35% fewer cavities!

Those attending included members of the classes of 1966-'67 and invited guests, and members of the C.H.S. faculty. The dance brought back many memories for the older members present and this was very evident in the way they glided across the floor to the strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and many other old favorites.

As the clock struck the bewitching hour of midnight, the strains of "Moments to Remember" floated through the air and the guests left, with the theme song tucked into their hearts for many years.

1966 Senior Awards Day

One of the amusing events of the year was Senior Awards Day. The first awards were presented by Mr. Smith to a group of empty chairs. 1966 will go down in history as being the year Senior Awards Day was started "without" the Seniors.

Summer Honorary Trips

This past summer found three of our local Seniors journeying to varied parts of the state and nation. Those attending Boys State for 1966 on the Indiana University campus were Dave and Dan Hunt. While there state government was studied, mock elections held, and military discipline practiced by all 916 boys. Dave was elected to Secretary of State on the Federalist Ticket and was also chosen as one of the final four boys in determining the Outstanding Boy at Boys State. Dan was chosen State Police Chief. Highlights of Boys State were campaigns, rallies, drilling, Lt. Governor Rock's speech, and a final revue held on closing night. Sherry McKain was chosen to represent our school at Hoosier Girls State. Flag raisings, campaigns, rallies, speeches, and meetings were held to teach the girls the importance of being a patriotic citizen. Mrs. Birch Bayh and Mrs. Bray were separate party leaders for the week. They also led the activities of the House and Senate. The highlight of the week was Honor Day.

Dan was also one of two boys chosen to represent Rush County at the annual American Institute of Cooperatives held this year at Fort Collins, Colorado, on the Colorado State University campus. The all-expense-paid week was enjoyed learning of the importance and necessity of cooperatives in the American Enterprise System. Sightseeing was also of major interest while seeing much of Colorado and other states.

Summer Band and Baseball

The summer activities were many this year for the high school band. The band traveled to the Muncie Fair, Coney Island, Shirley Jubilee Days, Knightstown Side Walk Sale Parade, American Legion Convention Parade, and Farmer's Day at the State Fair. All of these activities were under the direction of Bob L. Edwards. The band made good showings for their school and community.

The summer baseball teams had a successful year with the grade school team having an undefeated season.

4-H Activities

The past summer has found many of our local young people actively and successfully participating in the County and State Fairs. Carthage has been honored with many high placings, and we are proud of the high quality work that has been shown.

Those attending 4-H Club Roundup this past year were Darlene Barry, Kim Lafuse, and Craig Lafuse. Craig also sang in the 4-H Club Choir while there. Jerry Dixon won a trip to Conservation Camp at Hassamer Hill.

The Girls 4-H Club took top honors in the county "Share the Fun" contest with a very appropriate skit. They also represented Rush County at the district contest. Other honors won by individual club members were in County Food Preservation judging, Darlene Barry; County Crafts judging, Linda Copple; Division II Health Champion at county fair, Karen Hoff; and Division I Flowers Champion at the county fair, Karen Hoff.

Class History

In the fall of 1954, twenty-two inexperienced, untrained, and frightened small children pounced on Mrs. Flick at the local grade school and began their formal education. The kindergarten year was full of very important lessons, such as how to tie shoes, how we shouldn't color faces purple and hands orange, how to sit still for more than three minutes at a time, and how to get along with other mean little kids.

Many important decisions were made during this first year, such as would we swing or slide at recess, would we drink white or chocolate milk, would we unfold our rugs by a little girl or by a little boy? This class left kindergarten much wiser and ready to lick the ugly world of first grade.

In the first grade we were split into two groups; one taught by Mrs. Earnest and the other by Mrs. Cox. Mrs. Cox was small but very mighty, and she had the distinction of having eyes in the back of her head! It was in her room that all of the students cut out life-size paper dolls that resembled themselves. Mrs. Earnest really gave one little boy a scare when she took his name card and sent him to the board to print his name! That can sure shake the secure world of a first grader!

The class was still split in the second grade, when Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Newgent were our teachers. Under Mrs. Smith's capable supervision, her students made wool toboggans and hatched praying mantis eggs. The only real problem came one day when the praying mantis eggs hatched during the night and crawled through the holes in their jar lid. Mrs. Newgent unfortunately had a wreck during the year, and to her disgust the students never would let her forget how she looked with two black eyes. During this year they turned our ability to print into one of writing. But we were so proud of this new talent that names began to appear on books, papers, desks, and anywhere else imaginable.

In the third grade the class was met by Mrs. Josephine Alexander and Miss Mary Alexander. It was during this year that Dale Johnson and Dave and Dan Hunt were reprimanded severely for "surfing" in the snow between the parked cars and spent several recesses with their heads down in remorse! In the third grade many new subjects were taken up such as division and multiplication which broadened the academic level of the students. For the last time all of the students enjoyed an Easter-egg hunt on the school lawn. This was an activity greatly missed by all students as they moved on to the fourth grade.

In the fourth grade Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Gray had the fortunate opportunity to teach this splendid class. Much was learned during this year even though many recesses were spent with all heads down because they hadn't learned yet that students are to be seen and definitely not heard.

Mrs. Helen Ruby and Mrs. Mary Ruby guided us through the fifth grade where we learned all of the states and their capitals and also how to write business letters. During this year we had many fights and feuds, but most of us made it to the sixth grade anyway!

In the sixth grade both classes switched back and forth between Miss Carfield and Mr. Hart. In Miss Carfield's room the entire class learned many Bible verses and how to make papers neat the way the teachers demand in high school. From Mr. Hart's room you could hear, "Attention," "At Ease," and the like as he gave us military drills at any hour of the school day. Rene Logan found this hard to get used to and never did learn the correct way to salute.

As we reached the end of our sixth grade year this class began to realize that things would never be the same again. There would be no more room mothers or parties on very special occasions, never again would we be able to parade around the high school in our Halloween costumes, and worst of all, no more recesses. So with trembling knees and tear-stained cheeks--we said a fond farewell to our dear old grade school and turned toward the most important years of our lives, Jr. High and High School.

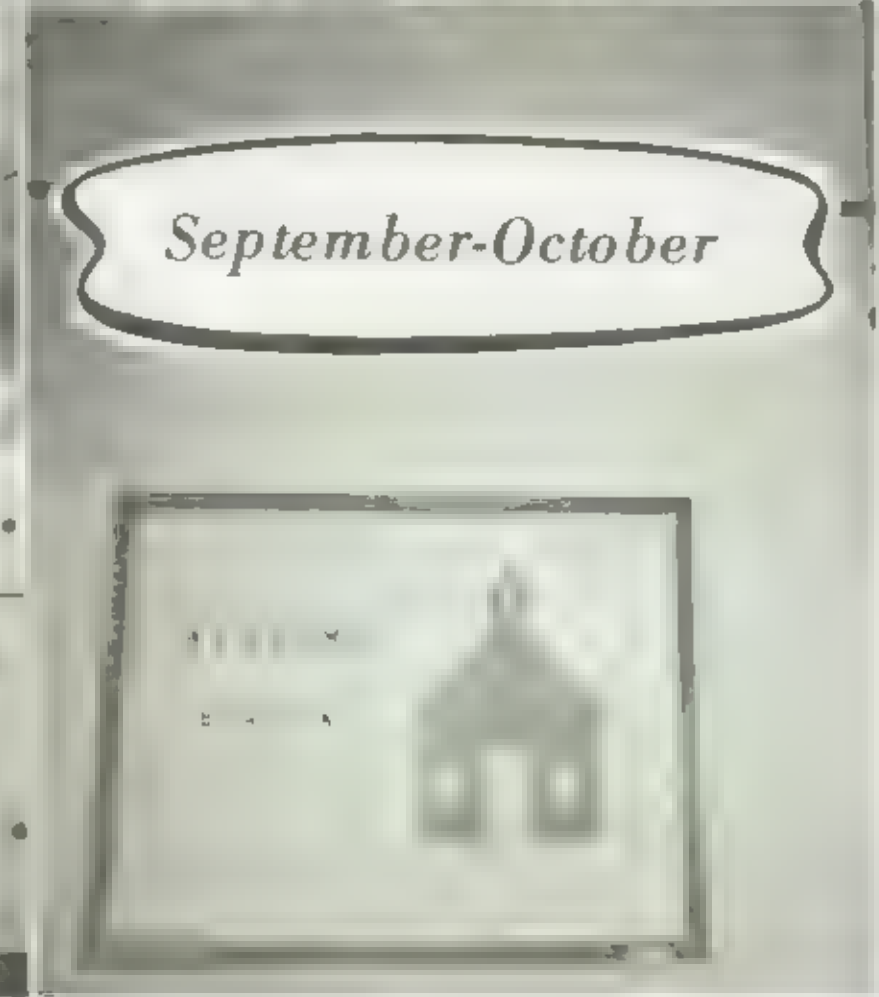

As the class of 1967 entered Jr. High the year of our graduation was the farthest thing from our minds. Of most importance to all seventh graders was the first class party. Since this is about the age where boys and girls don't seem to get along very well, it took much discussion before a party was decided on. Then it was really a whiz-bang of a party. The boys played basketball and the girls chased the boys wanting them to dance. After all this excitement everyone gathered around and ate cold pizza. The class sponsor that year was Mr. Hopper, the honorable band director.

The next year our class progressed to the eighth grade where the sponsor was Mrs. Nancy Ruby. This year's party consisted of a hay ride at the Hunt farm. Wild? Well, boys and girls are getting along better at this age level! Then came the Green. Greener, Greenest year. We had finally reached high school! This year we built our first class float and were awarded a second placing. Dave won the Freshman Cup for having the highest grades of that year, and he continued to keep up the good work. As we became Sophomores the lessons became harder and the assignments larger. Everyone was sure that their own ring which the class had ordered this year was by far prettier than anyone else's. This year we built our float in Eoffs' garage and again won second place for our efforts.

The summer after our Sophomore year was a busy one for the class. To make money we held paper drives, metal drives, pop bottle drives, rummage sales, car washes, bake sales, walnut drives, sold concession at all ball games and even mowed the Beech Cemetery twice. As school started the Juniors sold magazines and held dances. All of this was done so that the class of 1967 could take the last Senior trip allowed at Carthage High School. With all of these activities, the Juniors still won third with our Fall Festival float.

In September of 1966 the Senior Class met to begin our last year at C.H.S. We were the oldest students in school, studying harder and looking over several colleges. Our float this year had a theme relating to Indiana's Sesquicentennial year, "On the Banks of the Wabash." We happily look to our Senior trip in the spring of the year and to returning to our school and friends. We Seniors know that graduation will become a reality, and we are planning ever ahead as we continue in a new chapter in our lives.

September-October

The Doors Swing Open

The first day of school marked the "last" day of summer fun and merrymaking for most of the school body. Busses delivered the "country kids" to the front walk of the building while the "town kids" hoofed it or rode in style. Anxiously leaping through the front door the new seniors, juniors, etc., anticipated an exciting and eventful year. We checked in and were "Smoked" when we received our class schedules. As we wandered through the halls we noticed the same leering faces of the fabulous CHS teaching staff. Mr. Smith was somewhat thinner and Gloria was ready to reopen her "Dating Service." Mrs. Bieshke was found digging through her recipes trying to find "Bean Soup a la carte," and Mr. Purtee was smiling sweetly for the last time in 180 school days. Mrs. Compton could be seen practicing her most famous lines, "Richard, sit down and be quiet." Mrs. McClurg and Mr. Mercer were found sitting on the registers and already complaining of the cold, cold school building. Mrs. Land was tripping around the band room showing off her talents acquired in her "Orff Workshop." If Fred Astaire could only see her, he would turn in his dancing shoes! Mr. Edwards was crying because he has just seen the roster for the 1967-1968 Senior Band. Maybe he can draft a few Arlington band members. We noticed Mr. Gardner's room was empty; but, then in came Mr. Smith, dragging Eugene R. into the school building with his golf clubs trailing behind him.

We heard a loud crash and then saw the "grim" face of Mr. Weber as he pulled himself from the demolished hunk of junk that used to be his "Red Charger." As we saw Mr. Wright smiling merrily, little did we realize that he would later "wreck" a train. We saw a black and gold jacket fly by as Mr. King was busily repeating, "Fight 'em, Mays, -- no, Fight 'em, Carthage, Fight 'em, Carthage." Mrs. Creech, the new librarian, was trying to put the library back in order after the "summer janitors" tore it up.

We heard a loud weeping and wailing coming from the boiler room and there we found Ralph crying because of the mess the students had made of his beautiful floors.

The teachers began wearing a path to the demerit sheet as the "ornery" CHS students found it hard to control themselves.

The seniors prepared themselves for a busy year of activities, fun, and fussing. They planned their trip; and to help finance this, they had the first basketball supper. These same seniors tried to act dignified and intelligent so as to fool everyone into believing that they were ready to graduate.

The History Mobile made a visit to CHS and all of the students eagerly wandered through it. Everyone was anxious to get a long look at historical documents, not to mention missing class as long as possible.

It seemed that even the teachers weren't ready to calm down and begin classes, but a little letting off of steam never hurt anyone, they say.

As we looked into the school year ahead of us, every member of the student body was anxiously looking forward to the date May 26, 1967, and the closing of school for another year!

Four Ways From The Office

This is "the" efficiency of our office. Gloria does a good job of writing passes, answering the telephone, and keeping records, not to mention her dating service which she maintains in her spare time. She is also pep block sponsor and a good friend to talk to between classes and at noon.

Mr. Robert E. McKain, our trustee, and Mr. B. E. Smith, our principal, the administrators of our school, do an outstanding job of running our school. Through their efforts, CHS's standards have been raised and the academic curriculum has been made one of the best anywhere for a school this size. We appreciate their efforts, for they have made our school one we can certainly be proud of.

A daily event in the office is the passing out of those little blue slips known as tardy slips. They make the students sad but add a little touch of joy to the teacher's day after he sends the 'delinquent' to the office. As the picture indicates, it's a popular event, and at times the office looks more like Grand Central Station than our little office. Our memories will always linger back to these old times and those who set tardy pass records.

Elementary School

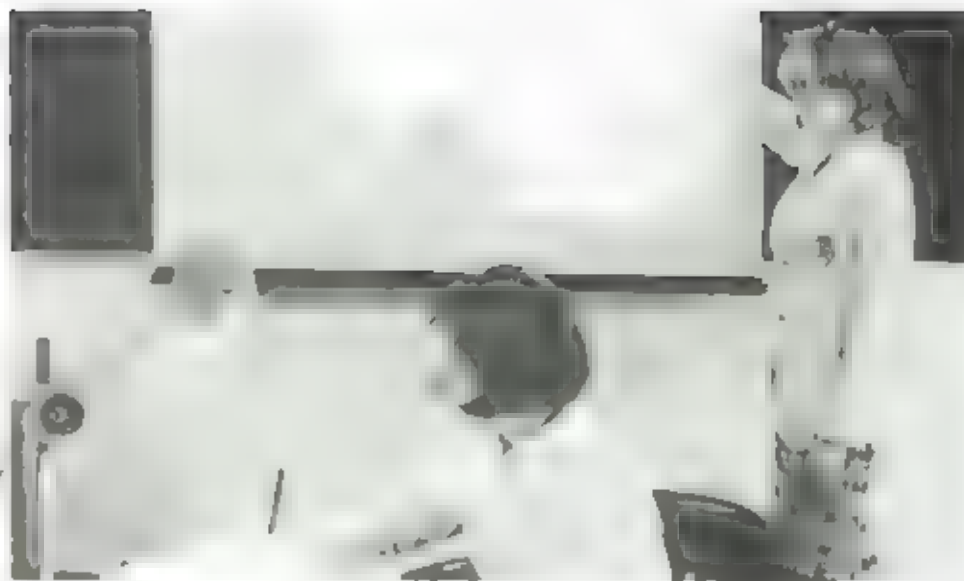

Although it often appears to the high school students that all the grade students do is drink milk and walk through the halls, we can see by these pictures that quite a bit of studying is also done. It is here that the students learn the fine art of reading, writing, and arithmetic. From the time the kindergarten spends drinking milk to the bulletin board honoring our 150th birthday these students are learning much that will be of great value in their later life.

Fall Sports

The start of school found new and interesting activities not usually found in the halls of CHS. Among these were the intramural sports and games formed by Mr. King, the head coach, for the high school and junior high students. These included a ping pong tournament for singles and doubles with games being played at noon hours and after school. These helped pass the long hours and gave a lot of fun to all involved. The winner of the girls' singles was Linda Chance, a sophomore. And the champs of the doubles for girls were Marilyn Edwards and Kim Tweedy, also sophomores.

Also an annual fall event for many of the boys was the start of the cross country season. This year found many "anxious" boys training for the 2-mile run with neighboring schools. The award for the outstanding runners of the team this year went to "Fos" Wilson, a junior and "Doc" McNabb, a sophomore, for their long-distance running efforts.

The 1966 Fall Festival

The annual Carthage Fall Festival was bigger and better than ever this year. The queen contest, smorgasbord, card party, talent show, parade, and dance were enjoyed by many Carthaginians and also many out-of-towners. The parade was larger this year as many organizations and churches designed and built outstanding floats. Knightstown, Eastern Hancock, Rushville, Arlington, and Carthage were all represented in the parade by their marching bands. As 'sunny skies' smiled down upon Carthage, the town turned out to celebrate in a glorious way. Then as the festival came to an end, everyone started looking forward to next years Fall Festival.

Miss Pam French, a Sophomore, was chosen 1966 Fall Festival Queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell French.

Runners-up in the queen contest were Miss Diana Whitfield and Miss Judy Zimmerman.

Miss Congeniality was Pam Fuchs, a Senior, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fuchs.

Class Floats

"Our Answer to the Rose Bowl"

The Seniors built their float at Hampton's Mortuary and found a few interesting items stored in that garage. Paula Grandison and Darlene Barry are riding the last float ever to be built by the class of 1967.

The Juniors won first with their float "Moonlight and Roses" after turning the Claude Pearson garage into a shambles of crepe paper and wire. Kathy Smith, Janet Mummert, and Rhonda Reddick are the lovely young ladies adorning this float.

The Sophomores rated second with their float entitled "Happy Birthday, Indiana." Ruth Davis, Mary Sammons, and Patty Gorman are riding this float that was built in Gatewood's garage. It seems that this float had some advice from CHS graduates.

Winning third were the Freshmen with "Yesterday and Today." their first attempt at float building; they invaded the fire station and chose Janet Willey, Debbie Magee and Linda Willey to ride it.

November - December

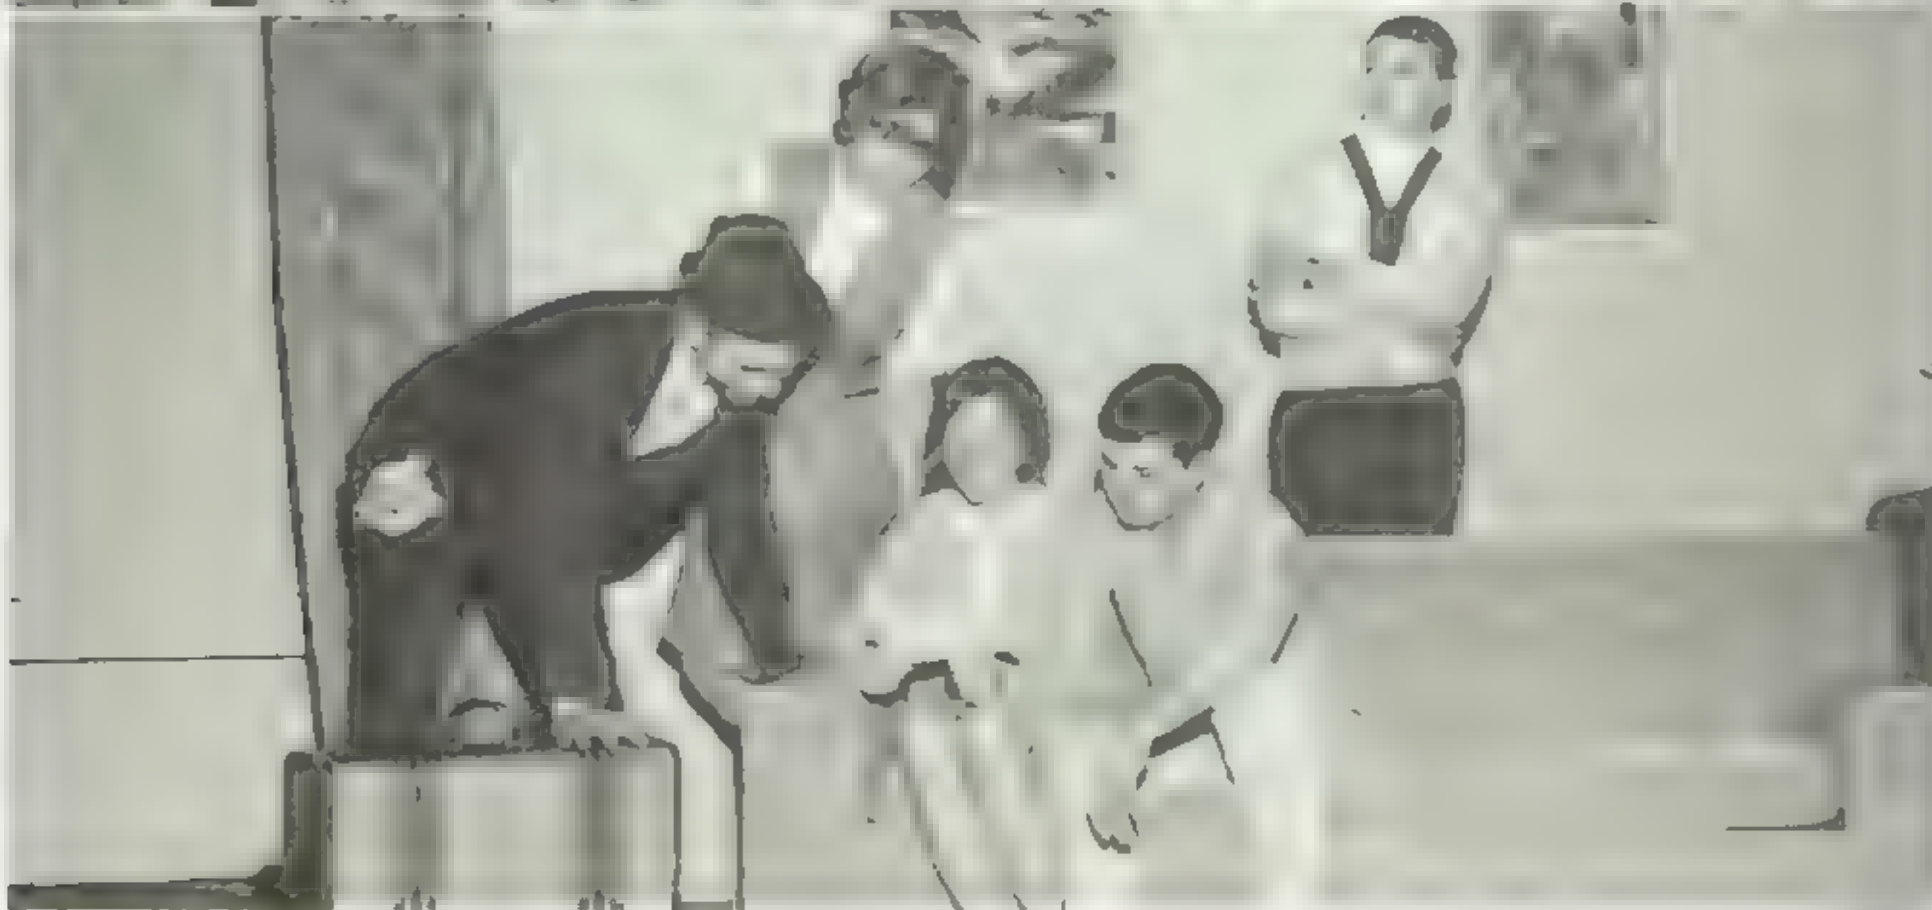

"Goodnight Ladies"

As usual, the Senior Class had very high intentions when they started to work on the Senior Play. Martha Trowbridge unlocked the door of the Community Center and began what she hoped was four weeks of "babysitting." How can any one woman be so lucky? Due to our poor acting ability, the four weeks turned into seven! With ten-minute practices and thirty-minute breaks, we ate ice cream and drank cokes at an astonishing rate. Our director, Mr. Gardner, developed an ulcer and was positive we would never make it. Halloween night Mr. Gardner gave us a longer break so that we might partake in such activities as soaping windows and just spreading good cheer in general. Although we were supposed to be practicing, we also found time to paint the backstage of the Center, have a pizza party, and play with one of the cast member's kittens. Although we practiced diligently, some members wanted to skip a part. It seemed that they were embarrassed when it came to their big love scene. Amid wolf whistles, they would romantically circle in to plant a huge kiss on the poor victim and then at the last minute lose their nerve and get each other's foreheads!

Synopsis

Helen Raleigh (Sherry McKain) and her sister Jane (Paula Grandison) found themselves faced with an enormous problem. They had opened a college dormitory and the girls were arriving, only to find no chaperones. To save the day, Sam Raleigh (Dan Hunt) and Jug Brown (Rick Patton) dressed as two old ladies and prepared to guide(???) the girls. The girls, Lulu (Darlene Barry), Angela (Diana Whitfield), Betty (Trish Nolen), and Judy (Eileen Snedegar) found the aunts very entertaining and a bit mystifying. The trouble started when "love-sick" Professor Dexter (Dave Hunt) arrives and found that his beloved girlfriend didn't remember his gift to her-----a bull frog! George West (Mike Alter) and Larry Dobson (Dave Whitfield) were always hanging around just to make life interesting. The moment of truth comes when Dean Eggleby (Wanda Henderson) learned the truth and caught the family in a very embarrassing moment! As usual the story ended on a happy note and the "mean" Dean was permanently "put down."

CHRISTMAS 1966

'Twas the week before Christmas

And all through the school,
Every senior was busy
Working on their cool yule!
Every stocking was hung
By the seniors with care
In hopes that dear Ralph
Would please leave them there.
All asleep in their seats
Were the students--no cares,
Just visions of vacation
Drifting through the air.
When from the boiler room
There came such a clatter;
They called Ralph Henderson
To see what was the matter.
The spirits were high,
The teachers were rash,
And in the cafeteria
Not turkey, not hash!
As the last period approaches
We hear such a cheer,
And there is faithful Ralph
Pushing snow with his John Deere.

And then we find the teachers
Their faces all aglow.
Can it be at their age
They've discovered mistletoe?
But their hearts are happy,
Their voices full of cheer
For they realize they're rid of us 'til
Merry next year!

"Don't look so sad -- it's Christmas!"

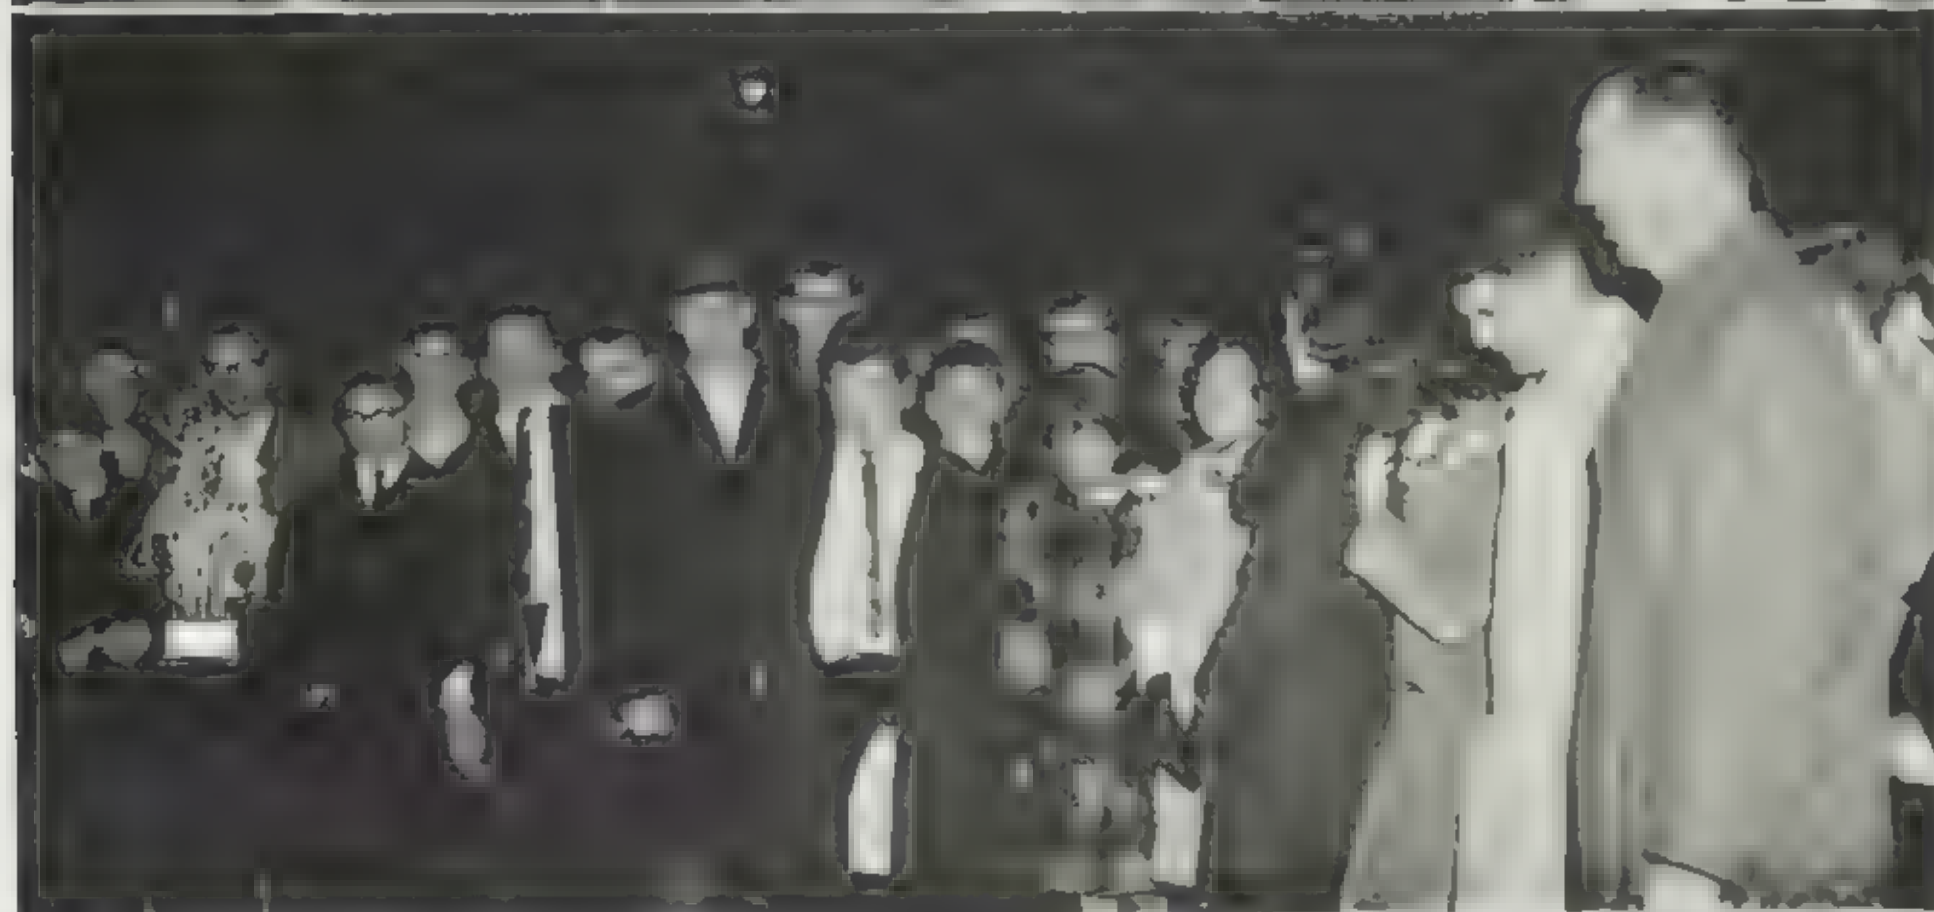

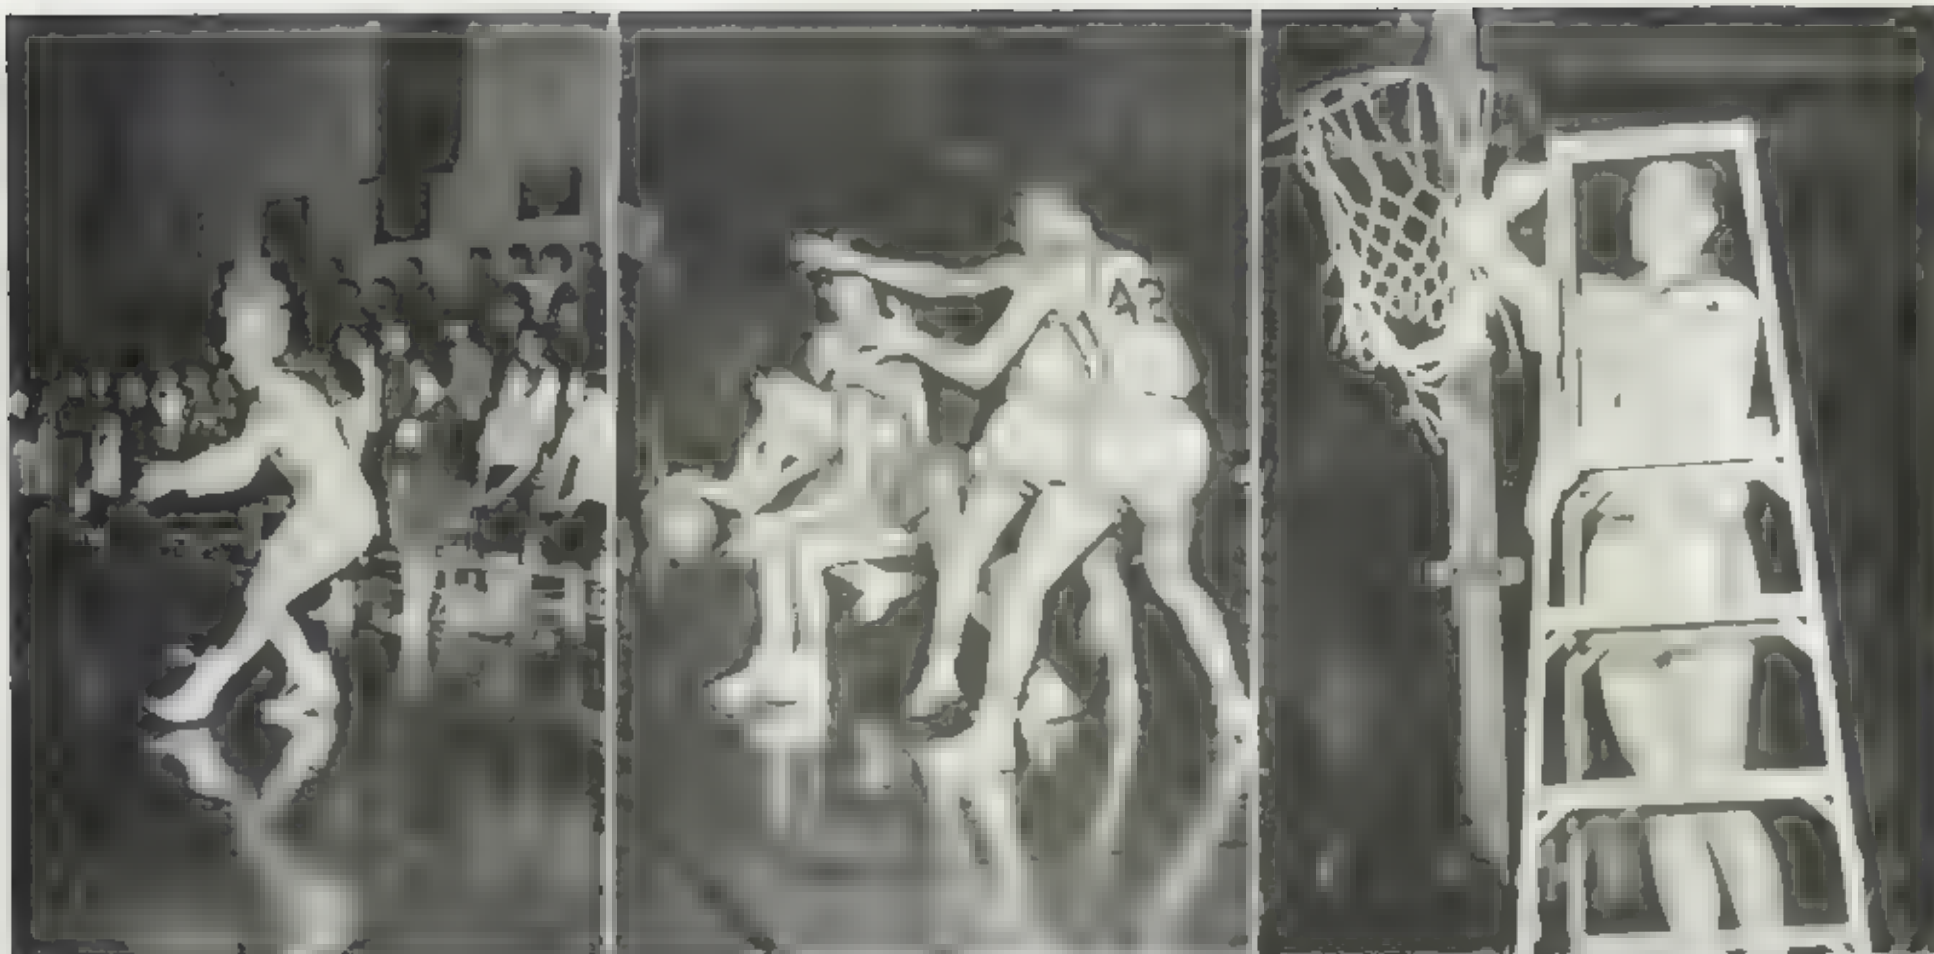

"Santa's little helper!"

"Hide the ham -- here she comes."

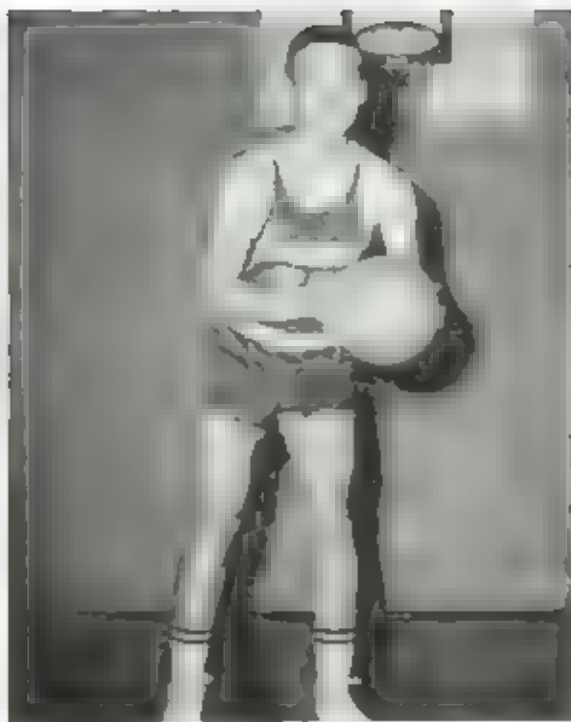

"Let's light the Christmas tree"

Rush County Basketball Champs 1967

The prized horseshoe of the county basketball teams found its way to Carthage by the way of the Raiders trouncing Manilla in the fourth game of the season by a score of 92-56. We protected it until the closing games of the season when a high-spirited Milroy team routed the Raider camp and captured our coveted possession.

This beautiful trophy was awarded the Raider team for their accomplishments in the tourney and will be placed in the bulging trophy case along side the others which were won by past Raider teams.

These four seniors gladly receive the 1967 Rush County Championship trophy after an astonishing 71-40 victory over the Morton Memorial Tigers. Left to right: Dan Hunt, Dave Hunt, John Rucker, and Rex Kline.

The fire department shows their recognition to the team by escorting them to the bonfire and afterwards to the dance in the gymnasium.

The proud citizens of our community show their appreciation by having a bonfire in the downtown metropolitan area (commonly known as the town square)

Coach Bud King expresses his feelings toward the fans and the team for their fine performance at the county tourney.

STUDENT MANAGERS

Dale Copple (standing) has been the B-team basketball manager for one year; he has also been active as a manager of the cross country, track, and baseball teams. David Whitfield (seated) has been the Varsity basketball team manager for three years, also helping in cross country, track, and baseball.

"That makes thirty-two wins in a row!"

Volleyball And Horseshoe Champs

The year 1967 brought to Carthage High the first E.C.C. Volleyball Championship in the history of the conference. A determined team of young men were victorious over three highly competitive teams; Milroy, a very tall and talented Eastern Hancock, and the team from Morton Memorial. Other teams competing for the honor were Morristown, Spiceland, New Palestine, and Hancock Central.

Giving the students' opinions of school policies and problems are the following members of the Student Council: D.S. Hunt, D.J. Hunt, D. Whitfield, W. Nigh, and M. Lafuse. Their sponsor and advisor is Mr. B.E. Smith.

Striving to help their fellow students are the members of the National Honor Society: S. McKain, J. Mummert, J. Edwards, D.J. Hunt, K. Lafuse, and D.S. Hunt. Many good times were had by all of the members under the supervision of Mr. Robert Damm.

The winners of the local spelling bee were C. Alexander, L. Richmond, M. Messick, and D. Whitfield. We of the Carthage Community were very proud of the students and their efforts in this academic endeavor.

The Latin Club of our school, under the direction of Mrs. Vera Compton, spends many hours delving into the background of the Latin language, Roman history, and the Roman people.

Spending hours of fun and work in the office are the following Student Secretaries: Left to right, P. French, J. Zimmerman, D. Barry, S. McKain, B. McCorkle, P. Grandison, M. Grizzell, and P. Fuchs.

This year the local F.F.A. chapter participated in the following: Chapter Meeting Contest, Exhibits Contest, Talent Contest on the District level, and many community projects.

Under the leadership of Robert Wright, these young students gain in their knowledge of nature by joining Jr. Boys' 4-H.

The girls' 4-H members of today are the homemakers of tomorrow. Through their fine efforts they learn many things that will benefit them in the future.

In Sr. Boys' 4-H many useful Projects are completed and shown at the Rush County and State Fairs. This club prepares the students for a better adulthood.

High School Chorus

This year the Chorus has performed in the following programs:

Sacred Concert
Thanksgiving Convocation
Christmas Program
Patriotism Convocation
County Festival
District Choral Festival
Easter Convocation
Good Friday Services
Easter Sunrise Services
Spring Program
Baccalaureate

Even though hours of hard work were put in by students and director alike in preparing for different performances, the members (especially the back row) never allowed things to become boring. Not only was music learned and technique perfected, often jokes and peals of laughter were heard much to the dismay of our talented and unheralded director, Mrs. Sue Land. Though she was a disciplinarian (for to escape with an act of mischief and not be caught by her watchful eye requires talent) and a terror on those who were unfortunate enough to be late, not enough can be said for the good times we had. Chorus taught us not to be afraid in front of people and how to have a good time; also how to increase our musical talent and our appreciation for good music.

The band from Carthage,
 Their accomplishments untold,
 Their director is talented,
 Though short and old.
 Their performances were thrilling;
 The people did rave,
 The judges thought different and sent them to their grave.
 The drum major was handsome;
 The members he cut.
 The audience went wild
 When through the band he did strut.
 The Senior band members
 Lead by "Sousaphone Rick"
 Were a talented crew
 And made our band tick.
 The ranks they were average,
 The files, oh, just fair,
 And the uniforms on the majorettes
 Were somewhat scanty and bare.
 David and Dale,
 Their heads filled with rocks,
 Marched in their street clothes
 And their blue and white socks.
 Now this our tale
 Of the CHS band
 They're really not bad
 But talented and grand.

Two Girls and A Ghost
(Eleven Phonies & A Spook)

The Juniors finally were given their chance to prove how great stars come from lowly classes. Mr. Eugene R. Gardner should be given a medal for turning ten hokie Juniors into budding actors and actresses in just four weeks. Mr. Gardner gained three ulcers and Martha was heard complaining of the noise, but the night of the play found a group of entertaining people turning out a swell play. It seemed that Kim Lafuse as the head of the household was always having trouble with his darling wife (Becky McCorkle) and the rest of his kookie family. David Whitfield, as the only son, tormented his sister (Judy Zimmerman) and her best friend (Linda Copple) in that special way that only spoiled little brothers can. The colored maid (Kathy Ree Smith) was certainly scared of that scarey ghost (Chuck Cruse) and to make matters worse, Tom Stevens was constantly throwing his gun around trying to act mean. The two Lindas (Rhonda Reddick and Janet Mummert) rounded out a weird group in a wild household.

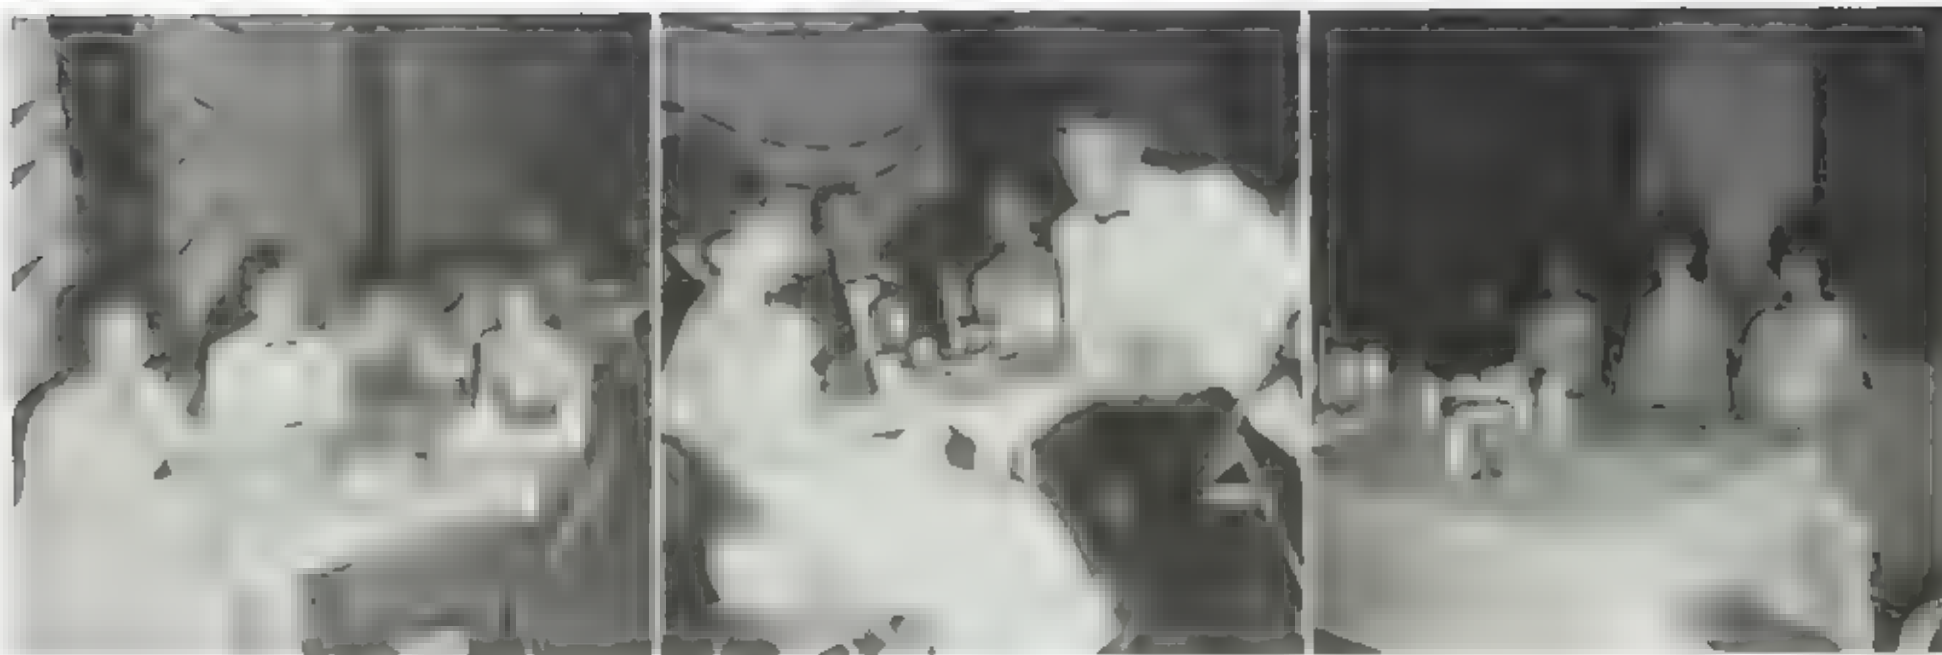

1967 Sports Trophy Winner

May, 1967

Dear Kids and sponsors,

“Line up by two’s and count off!” “Are you sure we have some gas today?” Remember those little funnies? We sure do. It doesn’t seem like a month since those wise cracks were floating through our bus and hotel. Of course, it doesn’t seem like a month since we were pulling out our hair, either. You can tell Charlie took it harder than I did! But we are slowly recuperating. We thought you might like to know that we both are quitting the tour business. We made our decision after we let you off back in Carthage.

We didn’t know what to expect; but of course, you didn’t either. Obviously, we were both prepared for the worst before we met each other, which was a good thing! The first day we had to get to know you. My, how nice you were. My, what good actors you were! We did make it through the first day though, but not before it was highlighted by running out of gas once. Would you believe twice, within five miles. But this makes life interesting. Ha! Ha! Can you imagine trying to keep 18 kids AND 6 sponsors off a busy interstate and out of water holes and cans. We turned the greyest this day.

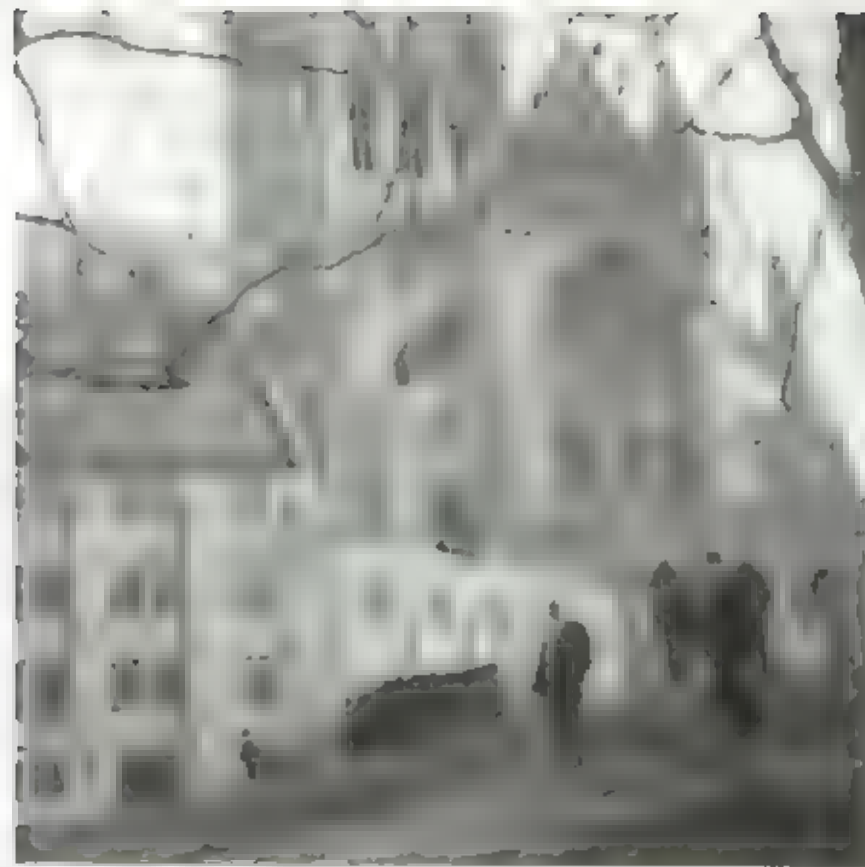

We finally hit Pittsburgh-the first “big” city for some of you outside of Carthage. Some of you walked through the park, but we have no idea what went on. But most of you stayed in your hotel rooms and talked about the excitement of the first day. The best was yet to come, though.

The second day turned out nice. Charlie filled up the bus with gas PERSONALLY and I had something exciting to put in my report. I’ll get promoted for that! With prayer and crossed toes, we pulled into Gettysburg, not quite what you expected. We remember how fascinated you were with the electric map, and how you viewed the battlefield with respect. It was quite a day. On to Washington!

You finally got to see your nation's capitol. We spent three days there. Remember? First you had orders. Don't turn left, travel in groups, and stay away from mob scenes. Now down to seeing the sights. Most exciting was Washington's Monument. A few brave but silly souls tried walking, all 889 steps! You learned fast, though. You were so tired you didn't give us another minute's trouble. And Lincoln's Monument was impressive, especially his writings. This was cherry blossom time, but not a one in sight, Great, huh? We remember how sick everyone got going through the Treasury, and how disgusted waiting in line to see the President's Ponderosa. You were most appreciative at Arlington National Cemetery and the Statue of Iwo Jima. But that was to be expected for it effects everyone like that. It was in Washington, too, you learned how expensive food can be. But you never ran out of things to do, whether it was eating pizza or loaning drunks money for a tie. This was topped off by the Potomac Cruise. The shore was beautiful as long as you were 3 feet from it, and the fog was so romantic. But we've never seen such togetherness as in your little groups going back to Washington. But later we learned you were just trying to keep warm. Nice thinking, fellas! (Charlie says.) But you survived. That just about wrapped up Washington and the Rayburn Building. The bright lights of New York were yet to come.

We pulled up to our hotel, and right away we found out you didn't like New Yorkers. We gave you orders again, but this time added that you don't talk to drunks. And who was the first to break our little rules? You guessed it. Big Daddy Cool. He just had that way about him that attracted them. But maybe it did look a little odd for him to have 8 or 10 kids, too! You liked the subways best, as we recall; we knew you were scared to death on your first ride. But they don't have signs there like they do back in Indiana either. Also you found out prices kept going up, and some of you started eating out in high fashion--Hot dogs and orange juice. But the finer things of life were yet to come. Radio City Music Hall, Broadway, and "How to Succeed" were some of your greater moments. The third day saw you eating onion, sauerkraut, and hot dogs for breakfast--hardly the breakfast of champions! That same day you went out to see the Statue of Liberty first hand and climb it first hand. We know you'll never forget those last few hundred steps. But the view was beautiful. By then, though, you were sick of boat rides and to your delight, we had one more. A three-hour cruise around Staton Island. The weather was marvelous! A balmy 46°. You were lucky; it gets cold sometimes on those excursions. You did have one free night, but heaven knows what you did. We hadn't seen Charlie for three days. We found out he found a nice quiet hotel room, sent a certain "spook" a greeting card, and got away from it(us) all. But he loved you!

You liked your rooms better because they were bigger. We can't figure out why you wanted them bigger; we knew OUR boys didn't fight. You also bid farewell to a lot of your money, too. Macy's was just too good to pass up. It was thrilling having All-Americans riding back on the same bus with us. But we had to bid ADIOS to New York.

Most were ready for home now and thought Carthage would look pretty good by now. Going back we found out how well you could(maybe couldn't) sing. Something to pass the time. But you did have your announcements over the intercom and your interviews with the travel agent. Wasn't his office lovely! Charlie was wanting to get home, too, because we won all those races up and down the mountains with other buses. We went through those long dark tunnels just for the love birds in the group. We thought that was pretty nice of us! But if you didn't have anyone like that, you put up with karate chops, etc.

The trip was almost over. My, what a change. From frisky, ready-to-go Seniors, to pooped, I-want-Mama kids. We sure got to know you in those 9 days, and we'll never forget you, though we'll probably spend a lifetime trying to. We must go now. Charlie has to attend a funeral. It seems a fuelman at the bus station died strangely after we got back.

Best of luck to you all. May you have a wonderful graduation!

Your friends,
Maggie and Charlie

This School Is Your School
This School Was Our School*

Chorus-----
This School is your school
This school was our school
We learned to read, write,
and the Golden Rule
We have our teachers and janitors, too
These are the phonies we leave to you.

As we were walking the halls of learning
Up from the cafe came something burning
It's nothing fancy, It's nothing new
Just another case of Bieschki's brew.

Chorus
We roamed and rambled and followed our footsteps.
We were always in trouble, not the teachers pets.
We were always tardy, got demerits too
You can have it now, 'cause we are through.

Chorus
We all will miss you though our hearts will stay here
And we will visit you within a year.
We bid farewell to dear C. H. S.
Look out world, 'cause we're a mess!

Chorus

Carthage High School
Class of 1967
"Class Wills"

- I, Mike Alter, being of genius mind and overworked body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Phil Campbell I leave my musical ability with hopes he will use mine and forget about his.
To Shirley Deboard I leave a pair of tennis shoes hoping she'll wear them instead of her go-go boots.
- I, Richard Back, being of sound mind and weird body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mr. Purtee my ability to help keep Fords running-and with as many as he has, he's going to need it.
And to anyone who can stand up in his seat without falling out of it, my seat in Mrs. Compton's classes.
- I, Darlene Barry, being of feeble mind and undernourished body, do will and bequeath the following:
To my brother, Earle, my ability to stay out of trouble my senior year
To my sister, Nancy, my ability to go steady all four years of high school.
- I, Carol Blankenship, being of sound mind and sound body, do will and bequeath the following:
I wish to leave the underclassmen of Carthage High School my ability to get along as well as I have in my stay at Carthage.
I wish also to leave Shirley Deboard my sense of humor which she really doesn't need, also my thanks to her and Jim Elza for their friendship.
- I, Frank Brooks, being of unsound mind and puny body, do will and bequeath the following:
My height to Larry Spence and my ability to stay slim to Jack DeWees.
My ability to stay out of trouble to Walby Schuck and not to get kicked out of school more than once a year.
- I, Linda Brown, being of sound mind and sound body, do will and bequeath the following:
My business math to anyone who can solve all the problems without having to look back to see how to do them.
My seat in English literature to anyone who thinks he can stay awake better than I.
- I, Randy Chandler, being of sound mind and sound body, do will and bequeath the following:
To my brother, Gordon, I leave my seat in room 3b, my A's in business arithmetic, and my four hours a day with Mr. Mercer.
- I, Pam Fuchs, being of overstuffed body and overworked mind do hereby will and bequeath the following:
To my cousin, Mike, I will my ability to stick it out through high school and to average not more than one trip per year to the office and not lower than 70 in conduct.
- I, Paula Grandison, being of sound mind and healthy body, do will and bequeath the following:
My office as President of the Pep Club to Judy Zimmerman, my position as office secretary to Becky McCorkle, my seniority on bus number 5 to Janet Mummert, my seat in government class to anyone who has to take it, and last but not least, my place in the Mixed Quartet to anyone Kathy, Phil, and Kim will take.
- I, Milly Grizzell, being of sound mind and strong body do will and bequeath the following:
My curvy figure to Gloria so she can forget her diet for good.
To Bob Grizzell, my ability to do housework, because after July he will be the LADY of the house.
- I, Wanda Henderson, being of sound mind and blank body, do will and bequeath the following:
To my brother, Ralph, my ability to go through my senior year without getting any demerits.
To Mr. Purtee, I leave these parting words: Hail, Hail, to Ole' Purdue.
- I, Dan Hunt being of capacious mind and ultra-masculine body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mr. Dan L. Purtee, my meek and humble ways since it's evident he's lacking in them.
To Mrs. Land, a 50-lb. bag of popcorn to be used at next year's yearbook work sessions. And finally to all the undergraduates, my will in trying to live a clean Christian life in hopes that they will see the necessity and importance of doing so.

- I, Dave Hunt, being of emblamed mind and all-American body, do will and bequeath the following:
To those beauty-starved junior boys, I leave my lifetime supply of hand-some pills, but to Kim Lafuse especially I leave a prescription for him to take an overdose.
To Mr Damm, I leave an Indiana road map, a free one-week correspondence course entitled, "You Too Can Get Lost and Drive in Circles," and a suggestion that you take a bus and leave the getting lost to someone else.
- I, Rex Kline, being of superior mind and masculine body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mrs. Bieschke I will the ability to serve those lovely meals to the unsuspecting students and faculty.
To Pam French, I will the ability to keep up her average of about 3 boy-friends a week!
- I, Rene Logan, being short in mind and even shorter in body, do will and bequeath the following:
To the Boy's Vocational Information Class I will my ability to get along with Mr. Damm.
To Jim Deboard I will my ability to finish school in hopes that he will take more advantage of it than I did.
- I, Sherry McKain, being of phony mind and messed up body, do will and bequeath the following:
To anyone who likes to laugh at corny jokes, break test tubes and have water fights, I leave my place in chemistry class. If you are phony enough to think you can put up with "Cassius" Purtee for two periods a day, you can have my senior math seat also
To Mr. Purtee I leave my purple trunks and my world title in hopes that he will keep the famous name of Cassius ringing in the hearts of all C.H.S. students for many years.
- I, Patricia Nolen, being of brilliant mind and overworked body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Pam French I will all the desks that I have had in hopes she can find room on them to write as many boys names as I have.
To anyone in band who thinks he can play the bassoon and have all the laughs I did.
- I, Rick Patton, being of interplanetary mind and irresistible human body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mrs. Compton I leave my ability not to blow my cool.
To Mrs Bieschke I leave a recent magazine article, "101 Ways to Prepare Leftovers."
- I, John Rucker, being of peculiar mind and muscle-bound body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Billy Back I leave my ability to skip school without getting caught.
I leave my ability to crawl in and out of car windows without tearing the seat of my pants to Janet Willey.
- I, Eileen Snedegar, being of sound body and mind do will and bequeath the following:
I will my bookkeeping book to my sister Karen so she can learn to add and subtract.
And last I will my leadership in 4-H to all 4-H members.
- I, Linda Sweet, being of excellent mind and fat body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mr. Purtee, I will my old chemistry book, in hopes that he can teach someone else to flunk his class.
To Mr Gardner, I leave my English literature book and hope that any Senior next year can understand poetry. (I sure couldn't)
- I, Diana Whitfield, being of healthy mind and overworked body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Don-Ray Richmond, my ability to keep out of trouble and to never miscount change to anyone.
To "Butcher" Copple, a sore neck, for that is what anyone gets when carrying the baritone saxophone during marching season.
- I, Buddy Willey, being of confused mind and retarded body, do will and bequeath the following:
To Mr. Weber I leave my right front fender in hopes that he will keep it in better condition than I did.
To Oscar Donoho I leave my little black book, in hopes that he will use it sparingly.

Carthage High School
Class of 1967
"Prophecy"

Dear Members of the Class of 1967:

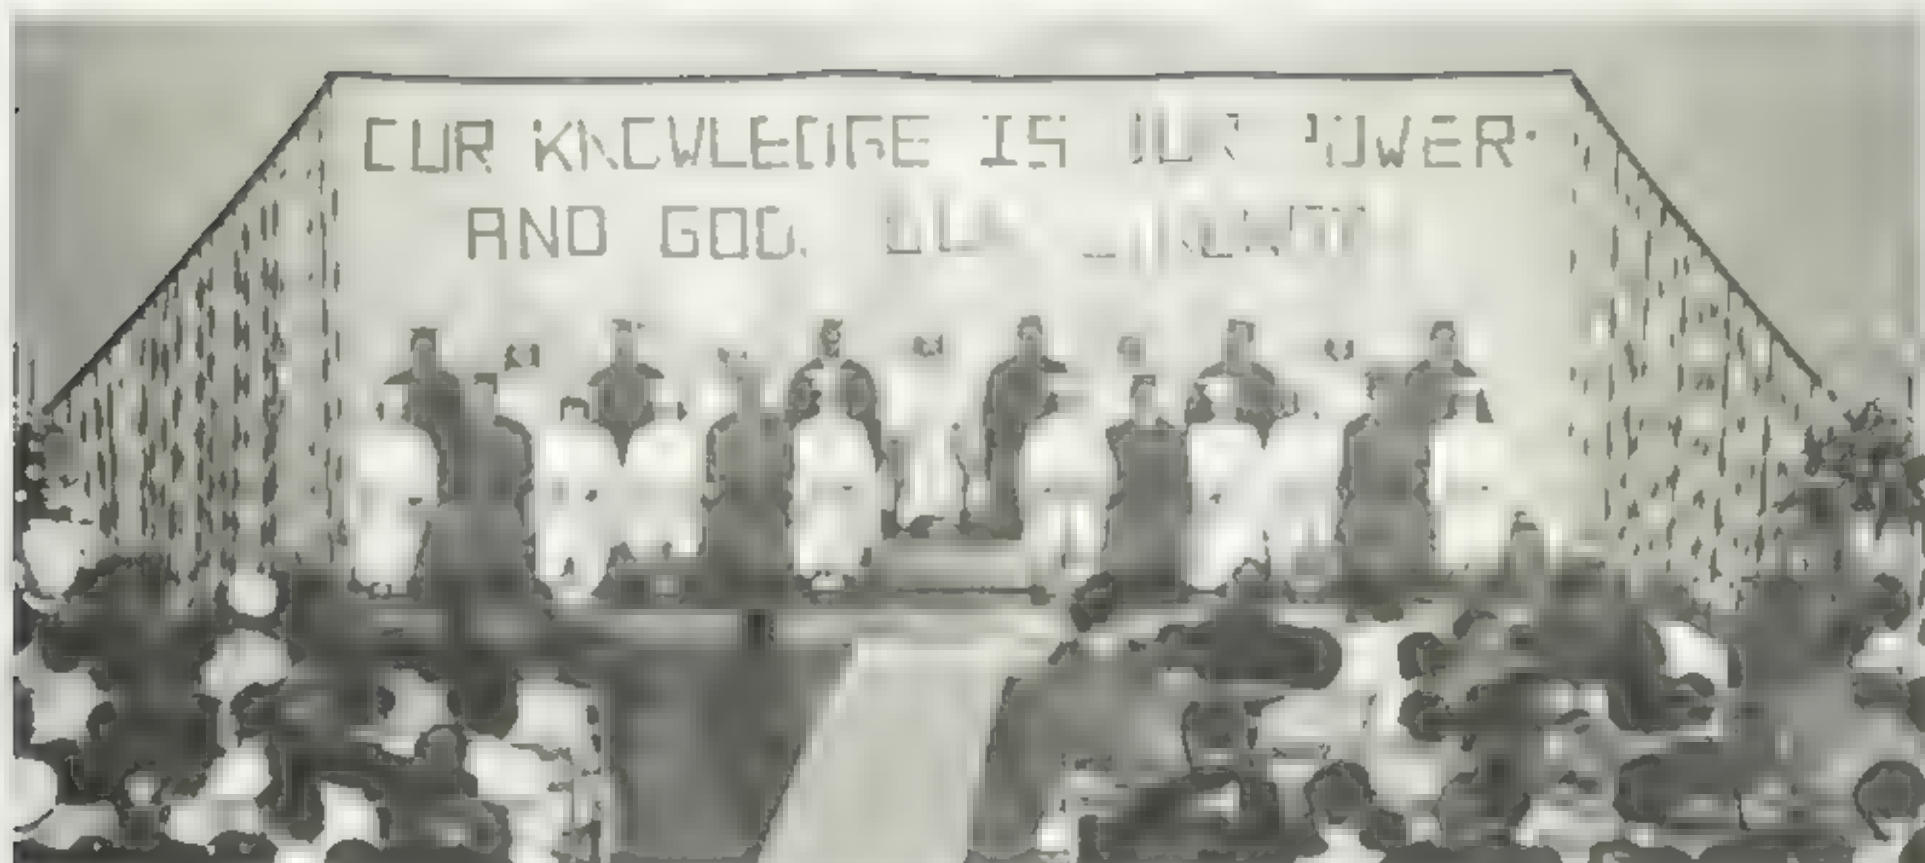

I am a professor at the Institute of Technology and I have chosen your class for my study of the future. I set my time machine for the year 1987. As I approach the great metropolis of Carthage, Indiana, I see the Blue River Reservoir has made this Indian village into a booming city of 30,000 residents. Thanks to the federal government for their generous contribution.

I flew in at the Hap Apple's International Airport and was picked up by a limousine from the Herb's Rent-a-Car now owned by Richard Back. I was transported to the Gatewood Hotel on Lakeshore Drive, formerly known as Water Street. As I went aboard the beautiful scenic cruiser to tour the reservoir, I met our guide, Mr. William Parker Willey III. He showed us all of the sites along the beach including the Rayburn Building. The boat anchored along Lakeshore Drive for a snack at the new Black Bear, owned and operated by Trish Nolen and Ilene Logan. It is apparent that this is the spot where all of the Carthage VIP's dine. I spotted the president of the Carthage National Bank, our own Rick Patton. He's still loaded and having a fling as a bachelor; he DARES anyone to mention marriage. I visited with Randy Chandler, now president of the Marsh Food Chain. I understand he specializes in "Sherry Wine." By the way, he was dining with the former Sherry McKain, now dean of women at the factory of knowledge. Sherry told me she got called in on the carpet for permitting her children to chew gum and to come to school late without having to write rules and make up time. She assured me she is abiding by the school policies now!! As I left Black Bear, I took a bus tour of the downtown area. When the bus stopped at the corner waiting for the light to change, I saw Wanda's Wig Shop located on Main Street. Wanda believes that a wig-a-day keeps the psychologist away. Carol Blankenship is Wanda's top hair stylist. Standing in front of Wanda's Shop is the local Salvation Army band with lead tambourine being played by Paula Grandison. Paula still says there is hope for her former classmates. On down the avenue I found the Hunt and Hunt Veterinary Clinic. As I gazed through the window I saw Dave sitting on the lap of his tall, slim, shy nurse. He told us that Doctor Dan was at the "Eugene R. Gardner Memorial Golf Course," shooting the b-u-l-l!! Along the lake we see John and Rex making a little profit off of all the tourists flocking into Carthage. They are partners in the local Bait Shop. They claim to have the longest night crawlers on the beach. I was informed that one of the most swingin' clubs in the city is the Homemakers-Ago-go. Our own Pam Fuchs, Linda Sweet, Eileen Snedegar, Milly Grizzell, and Darlene Barry are serving as the leaders of this EXPANDING organization. There seems to be a big commotion at the corner of 5th Avenue and 46th Street! Oh! There is Diane Whitfield modeling the mini-skirt. Looks like she really has the shoppers. Next door to Diane's fashion shop is the local newspaper office. I hear the hottest column in the paper is "Linda Brown's Gossip Column." I decided it was time for me to get a hair cut so I stopped in at the first shop I saw. You guessed it!! There was Mike "Floyd" Alter acting as the barber. He was giving Frank "Barney" Brooks a cool cut. Franklin Barnery is the local night marshall and water meter reader. My last stop was to visit the 1967 class sponsors. I was told Mrs. Land was out dumping milk for the N.F.O. Mr. Edwards was found directing the "senior citizen's choir" at the poor farm.

I hope the members of your class found this look into their future both interesting and educational.

Very truly yours,

Anonymous

GOOD LUCK

from the

CLASS OF 1967

In Fond Memory.

We the Seniors of 1967 take this time to remember our friend and classmate, whom we knew for only a short time.

Paul Allen Blankenship

We Wish To Acknowledge.

Our parents, whose assistance, love, and understanding, has brought us to the end of a successful Senior year and school career. Thanks, folks!

Mrs. Sue Ann Land, our Senior Class and Yearbook sponsor, whose most helpful and fun-loving personality has helped the Yearbook Staff in producing a successful annual.

Mr. Bob Edwards, our Senior Class sponsor, whose untiring efforts to make our Senior year one to remember always, his guidance and work during our entire high school career in making the final class trip from CHS to New York City a reality.

Mr. Byron E. Smith, principal during the past five years, whose guidance and leadership has improved not only our educational opportunities but also school spirit, student morale, and respect for the business world.

Mr. Joseph Cooney, photographer, for all his assistance and patience in taking yearbook and Senior pictures. It's been great working with such a man who goes out of his way to help and likes to have a good time while working.

Mr. Joseph Porter, photographer, for taking pictures of all the students in school and helpful assistance in being our yearbook correspondent, and advisor.
